THE SHIPS SURRENDERED

BALMACEDA'S FORCES FINALLY DISSOLVED.

The Report of the ex-President's Death Discredited at Valparaiso — Refugees Taken Away by Foreign Vessels—Seizure of Balmaceda's Treasure.

NEW YORK, Sept. 4.—The Herald's special from Callao, Peru, via Galveston, Tex., says: The tarpedo boat Almirante Condell and the armed transport Imperiale, the last armed forces loyal to the late President Balmaceda, of Chili, were formally surrendered to the Chilian Minister here to-day, and word was immediately sent to the Junta del Gobiernato at Santiago that the two vessels were at their disposal. The Condell, under the command of Capt. Morago, sailed from Valparaiso as convoy to the Imperale on Aug. 22, two days after the landing of the Congressional army at Quintero Bay. The mission of the two ships was to transport troops from Coquimbo to Talcahuano. The Condell and Imperiale steamed into port this morning, and for the first time heard of the Balmaceda defeat at Valparaiso and the flight of Balmaceda, the fall of Santiago and the complete triumph of the Junta. Capt. Morago had been particularly active in all the operations at sea against the revolutionists, and felt that it would hardly be safe for him to return to Chili. After consultation with the Chilian Minister he decided to formally hand over the three ships to that official as the representative of the nation. The transfer was made to-day, and the Minister cabled to the Junta for instructions as to what should be done with the vessels.

WAS BALMACEDA KILLED?

A Valparaiso special to the Herald says: In accordance with your cabled instructions I have investigated the report that the late president, Balmaceda, had been killed by one of the men who were crossing the mountains with him. No such report has been heard here, so far as I can ascertain, and nothing is known of the fugitive ex-president's movements since he left. The probabilities are very strong against the story being true, for if Balmaceda had been killed it is long odds that the members of the Junta would have heard of it.

THE REFUGEES.

The question of the disposition of the refugees has been definitely settled, and to-morrow the United States steamer Baltimore and a German man-of-war will leave for Peru with all the refugees aboard. A final conference was held aboard Admiral Brown's flagship, the San Francisco, last night, and the question as to who should and who should not receive guarantees was discussed. The German and American admirals worked through their respective ministers at Santiago, and were informed by them that the Junta would under no circumstances give any guarantees as to the president-elect, Claudio Vicuna, Senor Barados, Oscar Viel, Godery, Perez Mosti, Capt. Quentes, Senor Salva or Col. Pautoja. The cases of the others were kept under advisement till this morning, when the admirals were informed that no guarantees would be given at all. When this word was received it was decided to send the two men-of-war with the refugees to the north. The American and German war ships are closely watched day and night by the authorities, and this may have given rise to the talk in foreign circles that an attempt might be made to prevent the sailing of the Baltimore and the German ship, and to take the refugees away from them by force. There is really no reason, so far as I can learn, to believe that any such thing is in contemplation. All the newspaper supporters of the late government are marked men, and will have to leave the country if they can. This is particularly the case in regard to Major Herrera, who was Intendante Viel's paymaster and editor of the Bolotin, and Senor Lowenstein. They will probably be shot in short order if they are found.

EGAN CALLED HOME.

WASHINGTON CITY, Sept. 3.—It is given out United States Minister Egan has been wired to report in Washington City for a personal statement of the conditions of affairs in Chili.

All the information received from Chili to-day at the department is comprised in the following telegram from Admiral Brown, dated Valpaaaiso, Eeptember 3:

That Egan has been ordered to Washington is regarded in two lights—one that the administration is dissatisfied with his silence during the last two or three weeks, and the other that he is to be given a leave of absence, anticipatory of arbitrary action on the part of the new administration in Chili, which threatens to give Minister Egan a passport on account of his sympathy for the Balmaceda party.

A MILLION DOLLARS CAPTURED.

VALPARAISO, Sept. 3.—Deputy Verdugo was captured with $1,000,000 in notes and drafts, as he was making his way out of Chili yesterday, so that if Balmaceda escapes over the Andes and reaches London he will have very little to depend upon.

There are no signs of abatement in the bitter feeling against Egan and Americans in general, although everything is being done by Americans in Chili to pacify the junta.

Many bodies of the dead from the battlefield have been burned, and the balance will be cremated to-day.

A proclamation has been issued that all persons harboring Balmacedan officials will be shot. Balmaceda's family are now under the care of his brother-in law, Senor Torres, a strong Congressionalist.

It is believed that the provisional government will send troops to quell the disturbance at Coronel, and the leaders will certainly be shot if captured.

Great preparations are being made to receive the members of the junta expected to-day.

This city is gradually settling down to regular business again, as is also the capital, Santiago.

MRS. MARY LEASE.

No speaker in the series of women's conventions held in Washington last spring left so marked an impression as Mrs Mary E. Lease, of Kansas. She is a natural orator and genuine reformer. Her speeches abound with throbbing eloquence and rhetorical beauty as well as moral intensity. She is the Joan of Arc of the farmers and workingmen of Kansas. The Farmers' Alliance admits women on equal terms with men, and it already includes half a million women in its membership.

Whatever of economic heresy there may be in its platform, all Mrs. Lease's hearers are carried away with her eloquence. She has an army of Kansas women of like spirit at her back. The Republican majority in Kansas was thought invincible, and yet the Farmers' Alliance last November elected five farmer Congressmen out of seven, secured the State Legislature and replaced the world famed United States Senator Ingalls by the then almost unknown farmer, Mr. Peffer. There is no doubt that Mrs. Lease and the women of Kansas are in a large measure responsible for the success of the agitation. Mrs. Lease is a lawyer.

She soon discovered that the farmers, who have always been the most thoroughly typical and representative element of American citizenship, are tired of old-time party politics. They want a new programme of social politics for the people. Mrs. Lease's confidence in the Farmers' Alliance as a piece of permanent machinery may be wholly misplaced, but it is the spirit of awakening and energetic action behind the organization that is significant. Mrs. Lease is certainly one of the most remarkable women of the day.

SOME MINOR BOODLERS.

(Special to the Times.)

OTTAWA, Sept. 4.—Another few disclosures were made at the Public Accounts Committee meeting to-day. O. Dionne and H. Talbot, both employed in the Public Works Department as clerks, were charged with purchasing their household goods, such as groceries, dry goods, etc., and charging them to the department. Talbot had charge of receiving supplies at the department. He and Dionne would go to certain stores and purchase what they wanted and get the storekeepers to render such accounts as they would specify to the department, paying them with Government cheques. Larose, a dry goods merchant, being sworn, said that goods to the amount of about $600 were given to the clerks in this way. Dionne, being sworn, answered "no" to the questions, and Talbot tried to evade the questions. The cheques and accounts were produced. The examination is not closed.

Lieut-Governor Schultz appeared before the committee and asked that the investigation go on to-night into the yacht Keewatin scandal.

Premier Abbott yesterday introduced in the Senate a bill providing punishment for persons who commit frauds against the Government. Fines are to be imposed on officials who take bribes and contractors or furnishers of supplies who give them. Contractors who bribe are also to be debarred from receiving any government contracts after the offence is committed.

The Senate committee yesterday closed the investigation of the Baie des Chaleurs matter. It was decided to report Messrs. Garneau, Langelier and Pacaud, the two former of whom are members of the Quebec Gouernment, for disobeying the committee.

FROM NEW WESTMINSTER.

Starting for Chili—McLean at Work—The Rowing Club.

NEW WESTMINTER, Sept. 4.—George Currie, a journalist of some note, whose adventures have been published in the coast press from time to time, left the city this morning bound for Chili. Currie is the man who paddled from Alaska to Vancouver alone in an Indian canoe this summer. He worked on the press here a few weeks, when the roving spirit struck him and he goes to Valparaiso with the rest of the adventurers flocking there.

McLean, the oarsman, is putting in hard practice daily in his shell. He prefers a lapstreak, but thinks he will make some of the big rowers work for the money.

The rowing club's new house is nearly finished. Quarters are to be fitted up in it for Hanlan and O'Connor.

The Manitoba Harvest.

WINNIPEG, Sept. 4.—Clear and warm yesterday; partly cloudy and cool this morning, with brisk southwest winds. A little late sown grain yet to be cut, but seventy-five per cent is in the sheaf and harvesting will be completed by the 10th.

THEIR MIMIC WARFARE

MILITARY MANŒUVRES OF THE JEALOUS POWERS.

The Grim Reality Always Kept in View—Experimenting With Smokeless Powder—Russia Ready for a Swoop—Irish Local Government Scheme.

LONDON, Sept. 4.—The German manœuvres in Alsace-Lorraine are not on the same large scale as those which the German Kaiser is witnessing in Austria, but they are exciting a good deal more interest across the frontier in France, where the French are also going through the evolutions of mimic war. The German military display does not attract the same admiration and attention as the French among the surrounding people. The Alsatians ignore the parade just as sullenly as they did twenty years ago, when the Germans first took possession. A Paris correspondent who has visited Alsace says there is no genuine change in the attachment of the people to France, and that the Germans are looked upon as a foreign garrison. Both Germans and French are using smokeless powder, and the old powder seems to have been finally discarded, or at least relegated to use in fighting the savages of Africa, where the noise is a potent factor in successful combat. The Germans have stood the marching well, and it is perhaps of some interest, in view of the troubled condition of European affairs, to know that the long marching has so far been the chief feature of the manœuvres.

IRISH LOCAL GOVERNMENT.

Irish loyalists are working themselves up to fever heat over the avowed intention of the cabinet to introduce an Irish local Government bill at the next session. Meetings are being held and resolutions passed protesting against such a measure as sacrificing the loyal minority, who are devoted to English rule, to the majority, who are opposed, and it is claimed that the Irish Conservatives will be too thoroughly disheartened to make any more effort in support of Tory politics, and that it will paralyze their efforts to win any Unionist victories in Ireland. In England the proposed bill is looked upon as a step toward the larger home rule for which Mr. Gladstone has been contending.

BLOODTHIRSTY KOMEROFF.

The appointment of General Komeroff as governor of Warsaw has been coldly received by the Russian Poles, as the General has a high reputation for severity in putting down disaffection. While Governor-General of the trans-Caspian provinces, he had an execution nearly every day of nomad natives who had violated some trivial regulation of which they were ignorant. Among Komeroff's victims was the wife of a Russian army officer. The wife, a young woman, not long married, was accused of Nihilism. Komeroff, who knew no higher law than the will of the Czar, held a one-sided trial and sentenced the lady to Siberia. Her husband, a captain, committed suicide. Komeroff is acknowledged to be an able commander, and his appointment to Warsaw may mean that he is wanted where his military services will be needed.

ON THE RUSSIAN BORDER.

A Vienna dispatch says that the Russian villages near the Russo-Austrian frontier are thronged with soldiers. The frontier guards, who used to be merely gendarmes to prevent smuggling, have given place to whole regiments permanently quartered at every available point and ready to act as strong advance guards in pouring into the Austrian Empire in the event of war. Observation towers are being built close to the frontier, and the Russians are also planning the erection of three or four large forts to form bases for an invading army. The Russians are also constructing pontoons at Roni that can be used in crossing the Danube. Some of the pontoons are 90 feet long and 18 feet wide, and others 150 feet long. They are forwarded as rapidly as possible to the various places where pontoons might be required.

DUBREUIL'S SCHEME.

A Paris dispatch says that Dubreuil, the notorious swindler who has just been sentenced to six years solitary confinement, is the man who in 1889 submitted to the American legation at Paris a scheme to buy the island of Rhodes from Turkey for 200,000,000 francs.

NANAIMO NEWS.

Inquest — Runaway Accident — Inert Fire Wardens.

NANAIMO, Sept. 4.—An inquest was held on the body of Mrs. Downey yesterday by Mr. J. P. Planta, coroner, in the old court house. Dr. Walkem was called and gave evidence that, according to an examination of the deceased, he was of the opinion that the deceased died of cerebral apoplexy. On opening the body he could smell alcohol instantly. He found quite an effusion of blood in the fourth ventricle of the brain, which was sufficient to cause death. He considered that the cause of death could not have been determined by a superficial examination. Several other witnesses were called, but their evidence was merely as to the habits of the deceased. The jury returned a verdict in accordance with the evidence of the doctor.

A DANGEROUS RIDE.

Mrs. Davis, of Cedar district, had a very narrow escape from a serious accident on Saturday evening. The lady had come to town to make a few purchases, and after completing these, was about to return home when she perceived a Chinaman who was driving a team, and knowing he was going in her direction she requested him to give her a ride. The Chinaman gallantly got down to assist her to get up when, without any warning the horses made off at a terrific rate. Many persons stood spell bound when they saw the woman's danger. The horses had not gone very far when they collided with a telephone pole, which threw the lady out of the wagon; fortunately she was not severly injured by the fall, although badly frightened.

WHERE ARE THE FIRE WARDENS?

It would appear as though the fire wardens had ceased to take any interest in the dangerous state of affairs which exists along Commercial street through the dumping of boxes and rubbish at the back of the different premises. Yesterday a few of the boxes caught fire close to Mr. Cleace's store, and but for the prompt application of a couple of streams of water there would have been a serious conflagration. As it was it required great tact to keep the fire from Mr. Cleace's building, and the fire wardens cannot look into this affair too soon.

PHOTOGRAPHIC VIEWS.

Mr. Perkins has on view in his show windows a number of excellent photographic views, which have been handsomely framed for the purpose of being sent to the exhibition at Toronto. The views were arranged by the Board of Trade, and consist of scenes of Nanaimo city. The frame was presented by Mr. A. Haslem, and was made at his factory from native wood. It is very beautifully finished, and shows up to great advantage.

LITTLE HAPPENINGS.

A large house promises to greet Miss Emma Thursby in the Opera House to-morrow evening.

A wrestling match between E. Clarke and G. E. Harrison for $150 a side, takes place in the Opera House this evening.

At the annual meeting of the Nanaimo Telephone Company, held last evening a new board of directors was appointed.

CAPTAIN DEXTER DROWNED.

His Body Found Floating off the Customs House Wharf This Morning.

About 11:30 this morning Mr. Wm. McCormack, Government watchman at the customs wharf, while working on one of the scows, noticed a coat floating in the water, just in the rear of the Government dredge. He soon discovered that the coat covered a man, who proved to be Captain Robert Dexter, master of the Government dredge. Mr. McCormack secured the body with a rope and proceeded to notify the police. Provincial Sergt. Langley and Officers McNeill and McDonald proceeded at once to the wharf and took the body from the water.

The dredge, where Captain Dexter slept, is moored about 30 yards from the wharf. A small ladder runs from the wharf to the landing stage. In order to get from the wharf to the dredge the deceased had an endless rope running through two pulleys, one on the wharf and the other on the dredge, the rope being fastened to the boat. In this way he used to pull himself from one to the other. It is an exceedingly awkward place to get into, and it is thought that in stepping from the boat on to the dredge, he missed his footing in the darkness and fell into the water. Being unable to swim he must have drowned when he fell. His watch was stopped at six minutes past two, and it could only have been a very short time before that where he fell into the water.

Yesterday afternoon Captain Dexter was in the customs offices and said that he would like to go out of town for a few days. He seemed to be in the best of spirits. Late last night, between 11 and 12 o'clock Pilot Thompson was talking with the deceased, who then seemed in his usual health.

The body is without a bruise and the circumstances point in the direction of his having lost his balance, somewhere between the rafting and the dredge.

Deceased came here in the latter end of the fifties, when the gold fever was at its height, and at once joined in the mad rush for Cariboo. Being a man of considerable engineering knowledge, and possessed of a large amount of energy and firmness of character, he made his mark in the multitude of gold miners who flocked to the rich fields of Cariboo. He was part owner and superintendent of the Barker claim, in which he was most successful, and in which he made more than one fortune. On one occasion he "drew out" with a considerable amount, and went on an extended trip to the old country, and came back to make another fortune. His success won him not a few friends, many of whom now live to regret his untimely death.

Captain Dexter was married, but has not lived with his wife for some time. She now resides in Portland.

LACROSSE.

Mr. W. Blight, secretary of the Victoria Lacrosse Club, this morning received a letter from the secretary of Vancouver Club, saying that the latter club had acceded to the request of the Victoria Club to pospone the schedule match put down for to-morrow. Vancouver, however, asks that some definite date be fixed as soon as possible. The Victorias will hold a meeting shortly, and the match will probably be fixed for the latter part of the present month.

Died in the Hop Field.

TACOMA, Sept. 2.—Coroner Frank returned to-day from Lake Tapps, and reports officially that the man who was found dead in J. Weisel's hop yard yesterday came to his death by overwork. The man had worked only two days in the hop field, but he worked very hard, bringing on internal hemorrhage. In his pocket was a tax receipt, dated New Westminster, B. C. April 18, on which the name Edward Ridolf appears. No one knew his name at this hop yard.

The Offord block, Kingston, was burned yesterday, and is a total loss. Insurance, $8000.

The Indians selling baskets among the Thousand Islands are said to have cleared $40,000 this season.

Some farmers in Prince Edward county have realized from $1000 to $1600 each this year from their strawberry crops.

The apple crop in Prince Edward county is abundant, and it is estimated that 250,000 barrels will be marketed this year.

Mr. H. Stavely Hill, M. P., of England, the well known advocate of penny postage throughout the colonies, is expected to visit Winnipeg shortly.

Patrick Welsh, recently discharged from custody at Port Arthur, where he was held as a lunatic, was cut to pieces by a C.P.R. train near Rat Portage.

W. A. Freeman's new fertilizer works at Hamilton, were burned. This is the second time the works have been burned within a year. Loss, $12,000; insurance partial.

S. S. Young, general store jobber, Trenton, is in financial difficulties, and is taking stock. His liabilities are estimated at about $50,000. The principal creditors are Montreal firms.

President VanHorne and Lord Mount Stephen, of the C.P.R., were expected to arrive in Winnipeg yesterday. They are going over the line from Montreal to Vancouver on a tour of inspection.

A gentleman from the fishing stations on Lake Winnipeg says the catch this season was greatly in excess of previous seasons. One firm has already packed this season 1000 boxes of fish over the entire catch of 1890.

Capt Joseph B. Hastings, formerly an officer in the C.P.R. fleet from Owen Sound to Port Arthur, has received the permanent appointment of commander of the whaleback steamer Whetmore, plying with grain from Duluth to Liverpool.

A lady in St. Catharines, whose relatives in England reside near the family of Birchall, executed in Woodstock last fall, has received a letter in which it is stated Mrs. Birchall was married there within six weeks after her arrival home from Canada.

Major J. B. Campbell, a distinguished United States army officer, died suddenly at Montreal from the rupture of a blood vessel in his brain. He had been on leave of absence and was about to join his command at Fort Trumble, Conn.

Letters patent have been issued incorporating the Massey Harris Company (limited) with a capital of $5,000,000, divided into fifty thousand shares, of $100 each. This is the combination formed by the two great firms of implement manufacturers.

A meeting of flour millers was held in Listowel and it was decided as soon as the wheat began to be marketed freely to call another meeting and arrange to export a large quantity of flour. Flour exporters from Toronto and Montreal will be invited to attend the meeting.

Allen Hendry, station agent of the Canada Eastern railway at Marysville, New Brunswick, while out in a canoe with a companion upset it while endeavoring to see if it would upset by canting it from side to side, and was drowned. His companion was rescued.

The crop of mayoralty candidates in Toronto promises to be larger than that of Ontario wheat. Already these are mentioned, and some of them are working: Ex-Mayor Beaty, ex-Ald. Vokes, Mayor Clarke, E. A. Macdonald, Ald. Hallam, ex-Ald. Fleming, J. Ross Robertson.

Miss Helen Morton, second daughter of A. Morton, Emerald street south, Hamilton, was married in St. Thomas' Church on Wednesday, to Wm. Paterson, son of Wm. Paterson, M.P., of Brantford. Canon Curran was the officiating clergyman. The marriage was a very quiet one, and was witnessed only by a few friends of the contracting parties.

The London Advertiser remarks that Mr. J. H. Greer, ex-Conservative candidate in West Elgin, has hied himself off to Arkansas. The people against whom he professed to be so anxious to be protected by a high tariff wall have suddenly become such desirable neighbors that even his loyalty succumbed to the temptation. And he is a fair sample of the Tory patriot.

About two weeks ago, the infant child of parents living in Peterboro was taken in a fit. Somebody proposed that the old remedy of putting it in a pan of warm water, be tried. The pan was filled with warm water, and with the child in it, was placed on the stove. Neighbors coming in shortly after, and seeing what was going on, pulled the child from the pan, but it was too late. The child had been so badly burned, it died shortly after.

Farewell was bidden, at the Elm Street Methodist Church, Toronto, to Rev. V. C. Hart, D.D.; Rev. George E. Hartwell, B.D.; D. Stevenson, M.D.; O. T. Kilbourn, M.D.; and W. J. Hall, M. D., who are about to proceed to China as missionaries. All, with the exception of Dr. Hart, who has been a Chinese missionary for 20 years, are young men, who have just finished their education. The party intend to establish a mission in the province of Sze Chun, which has been left untouched by missionaries.

The former pupils of Upper Canada college from all over the province gathered in Toronto on Saturday last and had a cricket match, luncheon and supper to mark the removal of the institution to Deer Park. Rev. Dr. Scadding, the first boy entered on the register of the old college in 1829, and W. S. Macdonald, of Gananoque, now a nonogenarian, who in 1809 went to the "Old Blue School" before the opening of Upper Canada College, were present at the luncheon.

Miss Stone, daughter of Rev. Dr. Stone, and the Misses Snarr, of Toronto, had a narrow escape from drowning at Meaford. In company with W. S. Bates they ventured out on a raft in the harbor and proceeded to row to a yacht anchored at a distance. The raft upset and all were thrown into deep water. The ladies could not swim but managed to keep afloat by clinging to the raft until Mr. Bates, who is an expert swimmer, brought them one by one to the shore.

E. G. Gooderham, of Toronto, and Master E. Foley, of Montreal, had a narrow escape from drowning at Old Orchard Beach. It appears Father Kelleher, of Boston, rushed into the surf and pulled the half-drowned pair towards the shore, in which task he was assisted by Dr. O'Brien, of Ottawa. The boy was soon restored to consciousness, but with Mr. Gooderham it was a more serious matter, and the most effective of modern methods were resorted to by Physicians O'Brien, Devlin and Harrison before consciousness could be restored.

The negotiations which have been going on for several months for the sale of the Hamilton and Burlington glass works to an English syndicate have fallen through. The syndicate wanted to obtain control of the glass and crockery industries of Canada. The amount of capital to be invested was considerably over $1,000,000. The price asked by the Hamilton firm was $350,000 for the real estate, plant, goodwill and a portion of the stock of both factories, the firm to retain a bulk of the stock and all the book debts; and the offer was favorably received. The scheme fell through on account of the condition of the money market.

Exiles From Nicaragua.

CORINTO, Nicaragua, Sept. 3—Among the passengers who left here on August 23rd on the Pacific Mail Steamship company's steamer Colima were six of the most prominent men in the republic of Nicaragua, who were sent to Costa Rica as exiles by order of President Sarcasa. The party included three members of the Nicaraguan senate, Gen. Favalva, formerly of the president republic, J. D. Rodriguez and Chermorro. The others were A. H. Rivas, S. Guzman, and Pedro Oritz. They were made prisoners during the recent riot in the city of Grenada. As Sarcasa wished to be rid of his most prominent opponents, he determined to send them out of the country, and though he succeeded in doing so, his action led to an open revolt, which resulted in bloodshed. The mob which gathered returned the fire on the troops guarding the party of exiles, killing seven people, among them being the governor of the district and four soldiers. More troops were brought to the scene and the mob dispersed without any further loss of life, and the prisoners were taken to Punta Aremas. There is a very uneasy feeling in Nicaragua at the present time, owing not only to dissension within the country, but also to the possibility of trouble with Honduras. Both Nicaragua and Honduras have troops stationed on the frontier and it is the belief that open hostilities may occur at any time.

The Memory of Sedan.

PARIS, Sept. 3.—The papers of this city make no reference to Sedan, of which battle yesterday was the twentieth anniversary. Ollivier, in a published interview, complains bitterly of a renewal of the historic charges that his government provoked and began the war of 1870. He declares that William and Bismarck purposely outraged France and imposed the war. He added: "Arising from her defeat, France is greater than ever." An article by Zola in Figaro, proclaiming the necessity of wiping out Sedan, is the sensation of the day. Zola says: "France is ready and henceforth has nothing to fear. Time has worked for us against our conquerors. Germany is at the apex of her power already. One almost hears the voice of the tempest that sweeps away another imperial dynasty and causes a nation to totter. Its best days are over. France is surviving Sedan and drawing a strength from that event which is invincible."

France Suspicious of Belgium.

PARIS, Sept. 3.—Some newspapers of this city recall portions of the late Emperor Frederick's diary, which Prince Bismarck tried to suppress, revealing King Leopold's congratulations to Emperor William on the victory at Sedan, and later, King Leopold's intrigue with Bismarck and Thires to get himself made king, to combine France and Belgium. The object of the reminder seems to be to persuade De Freycinet to keep a strong force within easy distance of the Meuse, on the ground that King Leopold is still inclined to violate the neutrality of Belgium in the interest of Germany. Le Soir believes that a secret intent to that end exists between Emperor William and King Leopold, but that the latter has been compelled to be prudent since the Gelfaeken revolution.

Canada and the States.

LONDON, Sept. 4.—The feat of the Canadian Pacific Railway in getting the mails through from Japan to England within a possible 21 days astonishes the British press. The St. James Gazette, in a leading editorial, declares that Canada is the most valuable highway to the East, and that England must keep her within the Empire at any cost. The fact cannot be ignored that Canada has not been doing well. Modified free trade has proved a failure. Her inhabitants desert to the United States, owing to her wretched trade policy. The government is urged to propose a commercial union which will save Canada from the grasping arm that Washington reaches out to her.

CASTORIA

for Infants and Children.

"Castoria is so well adapted to children that I recommend it as superior to any prescription known to me." H. A. ARCHER, M. D., 111 So. Oxford St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

COL. HOWARD VINCENT.

Sheffield Newspaper Takes Exception to One of His Statements.

In discussing Col. Howard Vincent's Canadian tour the Sheffield and Rotherham Independent says: "We hope the Tories of the central division relish the conduct of their officious representative; that they will be amused at his expense is beyond doubt. But all those who have the welfare of Sheffield and its trade at heart will feel their amusement at Mr. Vincent's discomfiture tempered by a feeling of righteous indignation at the mischief his proceedings work upon the reputation of the Hallamshire capital. It is not merely that Mr. Vincent chooses to make himself ridiculous, that is his own affair. It is more than unfortunate that he should pretend to have a mandate from Sheffield and thus cause Canadians to think him a typical Sheffielder, which Heaven forbid. There was probably not one at the Montreal gathering sufficiently au fait with English electoral matters, since the last Reform Bill, to boil down the fiction on the spot, but if Mr. Vincent did really say, 'I represent the town of Sheffield,' he took unwarrantable and inexcusable liberty, because he knows full well that he has never obtained a vote of the whole town and is likely never to do so. Mr. Mundella on three separate occasions did this with success, and in 1880 obtained 17,000 votes, while Mr. Wortley twice successfully polled the whole borough. But Mr. Vincent is aware that he represents only a fifth of Sheffield, and that in 1885 had he stood for the undivided borough he would almost certainly have been defeated. Such suppressions of material facts and such consummate audacity well befit, however, the 'honorable member' who sent the infamous telegram to Lord Salisbury after the Paradise Square meeting called on Feb. 6, 1889, to discuss the treatment of William O'Brien."

DISSOLUTION LIKELY.

The Globe's Article Predicting the Approach of a General Election.

TORONTO, Aug. 29.—The Globe announces this morning the intention of the Government to hold a general election. It says: "The agents and heelers of the Conservative party are flocking to the capital, there to plan for the redistribution of constituencies and to perfect preparations for an early appeal to the people. This is no false alarm. We speak with knowledge of the plans and movements of the Conservative forces. A redistribution measure will be introduced during the present parliamentary session, and the Abbott Government will go to the country just as soon as the voters' lists are completed and the plans are ripe for an appeal. It is probable that the election will come on during the latter part of December or early in January. Why this new election? The Government boast that they have a safe and solid majority of 30. The parliament now sitting is fresh from the people. The census hardly warrants a redistribution. There are two reasons assigned for the decision that has been reached. One is that the Government are not face the election courts, that many of their followers fear very scandalous revelations, and there is hardly a doubt that four or five ministers and some of their prominent supporters would be disqualified. These developments, added to the ghastly exposures of corruption made since Parliament entered upon this memorable session, would mean the absolute destruction of the Conservative organization, the utter overthrow of the leaders and bosses and the end of a black chapter in our history. The other reason assigned for the approaching dissolution is that Lord Stanley has made strong remonstrances against the retention in office of a Government which it has been proved was elected by bold and flagrant corruption; which tolerated wholesale thieving in the public departments and made the name of Canada a scandal and a bye word on the earth, and that the Government see no way out of the embarrassing position save through dissolution. Parliament was dissolved a few months ago to avoid the exposure of corruption before its committees. Parliament will be dissolved a few months hence to avoid exposure of corruption before the courts. Whether or not it is true that Lord Stanley has demanded a clean administration we do not pretend to know. We but give the rumor; but that dissolution is contemplated we affirm of positive knowledge. It is expected, too, that some means will be found for shirking the proposed reciprocity conference at Washington in October, as the ministers knew their policy will not be seriously considered by the Washington administration, and that the Tory ministers will not strive to humbug the people on that vital issue through another campaign."

Wheat From San Francisco.

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 3.—There was a larger export movement in wheat during the past month, the number of cargoes cleared being 27, aggregating 1,499,000 centals, valued at $2,476,200. In August, 1890, exports were 1,066,000 centals, valued at $1,476,000.

She Married Her Coachman.

Montreal society is very much excited over the marriage of Mrs. John Tiffin, a wealthy widow, to her coachman, an English emigrant, named Arthur Crew. The latter is young, good-looking and intelligent. The Tiffin family is one of the best connected in Montreal. The head of the family was Henry Tiffin, who died immensely wealthy. The former husband of Mrs. John Tiffin died through effects of excesses. He married his cousin when she was 19 years of age, and she is now only 21. She owns a large country property at Sault au Recollet, in the suburbs of Montreal, where she resides, besides a life income. Crew came out from England two years ago and was engaged as stable boy by Mr. Tiffin, and afterwards became his coachman. Soon after his arrival he ingratiated himself with Mrs. Tiffin and her evident partiality to him was remarked by all. The wedding was a quiet one. The couple, with witnesses, went to the little Episcopal Church at Sault au Recollet and were married by Rev. Mr. McManus. The family of Mrs. Tiffin refuse to recognize either bride or husband.

CANADIAN POLICE.

New York Sun.]

If a squad of the Canadian mounted police were suddenly to appear on Broadway in their gaudy uniforms they would make quite a sensation. These strapping fellows are scattered all over the Canadian Northwest in barracks at the principal settlements. They number a thousand, are splendidly mounted, and are quite a feature in the life of the Northwest Territories. Half a dozen of them may always be seen at the more important stations on the line of the Canadian Pacific railroad, where they form quite an attraction for tourists, until they cease to be a novelty. Their uniform is one of the gaudiest ever donned by a police force. On their heads they wear a black flat cap much like a skull cap, with a broad yellow border, and a leather strap fastened to its sides and resting on their chins. Their jackets are a bright red, with a profusion of gilt buttons, and their trousers are black, with broad yellow side stripes. They always wear spurs and generally a belt full of cartridges, and make quite a striking appearance.

"Our life is not such a very easy one," said one of them the other day. "To be sure we do not drill much, except in the early part of our service, but we have a good deal of barrack duty to perform, and every little while we are sent on a hunt after horse thieves or other criminals, or down south to the Indian reservations to settle some little trouble among the Indians."

"Do you wear this uniform when you are chasing horse thieves?" the policeman was asked. "Your red jackets must advertise your presence on these flat prairies as far as the eye can reach."

"Oh, no," he replied. "When we are off on a hunt for criminals we dress entirely in black. Sometimes we are gone for two or three weeks on this service. Occasionally we take a week's rations with us, but we do not like to burden ourselves on a rapid march with heavy haversacks, and when possible we rely for food upon any settlements which lie in the direction we are taking. As a rule we are successful in catching criminals even when they have some days the start of us. On these great plains they cannot conceal themselves as they might in timbered countries, and moreover, they find it necessary to visit some settlement or ranch for food, and if they appear at any town the telegraph is quite sure to put us on their track."

The pay of the Canadian mounted police is $30 a month and found. They first enlist for a period of five years, and the government is glad to re-enlist them for three years longer at advanced pay. Some of the Northwestern territories are very anxious to become provinces, but even when this change in their form of government takes place it is probable that the system of mounted police will be continued for many years yet. The territory they police is enormous, and so long as it is thinly settled no other means of preserving the peace and bringing criminals to justice is likely to prove so economical and effective. Many of them re-enlist at the end of their term of service. They are all tall, well-developed fellows, and fine specimens of manly health and vigor. Most of them like their way of living, and are particularly proud of their horsemanship and of the fine animals provided for them.

Americans are usually surprised to find that the smaller Canadian cities keep the peace with so few policemen. Winnipeg, for instance, with a population of about 40,000 people, has only 18 policemen. They are rather remarkable specimens, however, and every man of them is over six feet tall. They say the city is very quiet, and they have no difficulty in guarding property and maintaining the peace. Victoria, with a population of 20,000 souls, has only 13 policemen, and Mayor Grant said the other day, with considerable pride, that after a recent celebration in which the whole city was en fete for two days, there was not, on the day following the event, a single case in the police court. A different state of affairs is found in the towns of our own Pacific coast. In Tacoma, for instance, with a population of about 40,000, there are 90 policemen, and the citizens seem to think they need every man of them to keep their town in order.

Control of the Suez Canal.

LONDON, Sept. 3.—The Paris correspondent of the Times says Russia has purchased all the Suez canal bonds that could be procured in order to acquire influence at the company's meeting so as, at an opportune moment, to turn the scale in favor of the French government.

Germany and Dardanelles.

BERLIN, Sept. 3.—The North German Gazette and other German papers commenting on the Dardanelles matter, declare it is mainly a question of England's interests alone, and that Germany need not be dismayed at London's alarm, the European powers being only secondarily concerned.

OFFICE: 70 DOUGLAS STREET, VICTORIA, B. C.

Great Care Exercised.

The Bank of England's doors are now so finely balanced that the clerk, by pressing a knob under his desk, can close the outer doors instantly, and they cannot be opened again except by special process. This is done to prevent the daring and ingenious unemployed of the great metropolis from robbing the famous institution. The bullion departments of this and other great English banking establishments are nightly submerged in several feet of water by the action of the machinery.

The fact that such great care is exercised daily in banking institutions, in order to prevent robbery and wrecking, should remind every man and woman that they have a treasure to guard, of greater value than all the gold contained in the Bank of England and other kindred institutions.

This treasure is life; the most precious of all the gifts that God can bestow. Yet men and women go on from day to day, heedless of foes which find an entrance through unguarded channels. These foes, unless promptly arrested and turned out, must wreck this great and priceless treasure, life. To-day these foes are numerous, treacherous, daring and unrelenting. they respect neither sex, age or social position, and are ever on the alert to effect an entrance and prosecute their terrible designs.

In Canada, those which are most to be dreaded to-day are nervousness, headaches, sleeplessness, languidness, worn-out feelings, despondency, morbidness and paralysis. Dreadful foes to think of and contend with; but more hideous still is the consummation of their work when they bring on, as is often the result, paresis and insanity.

To guard properly that great treasure, life, we require at hand an agent as quick and effective is its action as is the machinery used for closing the great outer doors of the Bank of England.

The great acknowledged agent of modern times is Paine's Celery Compound, which, if used when the first slight symptoms are felt, will effectually close the doors against disease and suffering. Should you have neglected the premonitory symptoms, and allowed any of the above mentioned dreaded foes to weaken you, or lay you low, there is no power or remedy on earth that can so completely restore you to perfect health and strength as Paine's Celery Compound. Its sales are now enormous in every section of the continent, and all are deeply impressed with its great remedial properties.

POSTOFFICE MATTERS.

The complaint made by "San Juan," whose letter appears in another column, is certainly well founded. In fact, the grievance might justify stronger language than our correspondent uses. The people of this city are unjustly treated by the Dominion Government in regard to postal matters just as they are in regard to their commercial interests generally, and there is very little hope of anything being done for them through the efforts of the city's representatives in Parliament. The fact that bushels of letters lie undelivered in the postoffice instead of reaching people to whom they are addressed is of very little moment to gentlemen who place military glory so far above vulgar commercial benefits. It must be said, though, that the people of Victoria in some measure deserve such slights as are put upon them from Ottawa, for they have in the past shown a docility that might well invite kicks instead of compliments. If they want postal grievances and other grievances redressed, they must raise a row instead of meekly submitting.

It is certainly an outrage that only four letter carriers should be employed to deliver letters over the whole of this city. As our correspondent says, these men must tramp steadily from morning till night, doing an amount of work for which $40 per month is very poor compensation. What wonder that the men frequently grow tired and give up, causing constant changes in the carrier staff? Constant changes, of course, mean a poor service, which is apparently made worse by the fact that when a carrier resigns his place cannot be filled until the department at Ottawa is heard from. What does this latter piece of paternalism mean? Surely the postmaster can be entrusted with so small a matter of business as the engagement of a letter carrier. It is even said that when a carrier falls sick a man cannot be engaged temporarily in his place; at any rate a day's delivery is missed now and then in some part of the city, and this is the reason given.

That four men are not equal to the task of delivering this city's letters with the proper promptitude and accuracy must be apparent to any person who looks at the size of the city and the number of its residents. A comparison with other cities shows that the department is also quite well aware of the facts. Victoria, with a population of 16,800 has four letter carriers. Winnipeg, with a population of 25,600, has 16 carriers, or four times as many. Kingston, with 19,200, has a regular staff of eight carriers, or twice as many as Victoria. London's population is 32,000, served by no less than 26 carriers. A comparison of revenues and expenditures shows that economy does not afford a reasonable excuse for the niggardliness with which Victoria is treated. The gross postal revenue from this city was $31,000 last year, while the total expenditure on salaries was $13,915. In Kingston the revenue was $23,656 and the expenditure $15,146. In London the figures were $51,700 and $32,643 respectively, and in Winnipeg $66,718 and $32,787. In Victoria the revenue was $7343 more and the expenditure $1231 less than in Kingston, and at the very least four more carriers might be employed here without bringing the expenditure and revenue up to the same proportion as in the latter city. Then there would be some chance of efficiency in the service.

It is not possible to hold out much hope of a remedy for either the letter delivery grievance or the many other annoyances caused by the neglect with which the city's postal service is treated at Ottawa. There is certainly none to be gained from the achievements of our brilliant M.P.'s. Their ideas of utility are embodied in the drill shed and harbor grants; from these the people know what to expect. When it was desired to superannuate Postmaster Wallace to create a vacancy, the matter was carried through against Mr. Wallace's wishes and without regard to either the city's interests or the country's pocket. By this scheme $912 a year was taken out of the treasury without any sort of excuse. The people of the city will be pleased to remember that for a slightly larger sum two more letter carriers could have been employed, and the money would have been well expended. The proper proportion for Victoria seems to be $20,000 for a drill shed, $6000 for the harbor, $912 for needless superannuation and nothing at all for needed postal improvements.

NOT PRACTICAL.

Col. Vincent's scheme is practical and not theoretical, says the Telegram, and it is unable to understand why the Liberals as well as the Tories should not be able to enthuse over it. With all due respect for the business acumen of our contemporary, we submit that the scheme is not practical. England has thriven by free trade. The moment she abandons that principle that moment she ceases to become the cheap producing country that she is. And another thing, is it to be supposed that an arrangement to the effect that the colonies shall provide the raw material and that England shall work it up can last? The colonies one day will want to manufacture as well as England. This, in fact, is the fundamental principle of N. P. But our Tory friends can't see it. Their wits are so obscured with the Imperialistic idea that they cannot understand that the colonies should have manufacturing aspirations. But there is no danger of Great Britain making the fool of herself that some of her super serviceable friends desire. What ever cranky M.P.'s and still more cranky colonials have to offer as a means of perpetuating the British drum beat around the world, nothing is more certain than that the British manufacturer will ponder long and hard before he will engage to buy of 40,000,000 colonials exclusively at the risk of losing the trade of the rest of the world. And again, why should Canada enter into a compact with England when, save in the matter of wheat, which is Canada's most uncertain crop, she has a market in the United States for all else that she can produce? As a matter of fact Canada is most favorably situated for making money if she would only engage in the proper trade relations with the rest of the world. By entering into reciprocal trade relations with the States she would be able to market all of her produce save wheat, and that she could sell in Europe as she does at present. It is safe to say that England placed as is Canada would lose no time in bringing about trade relations with the world at large, which, though they did not swell the profits of the red parlor, would eventuate in the cultivation of every acre of arable soil in the Dominion, and in the development of all of her latent resources. Canada has been sacrificed to the red parlor and boodleism.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

"The only bright spot in the census report is the portion dealing with Ontario, the Northwest and British Columbia," says the Globe. Yes, this is bright, but when we come to remember that what has been B. C.'s gain has been Eastern Canada's loss, the silver lining in the cloud takes on a darker tinge. Since the completion of the C. P. R. the influx of immigrants to this coast has been enormous. Putting it down at the low figure of 100 a day it would reach 185,500. The census fixes the population of the Province at something over 90,000. The population of ten years ago was estimated at close to 50,000. The gain consequently has been slightly over 40,000. Is not this a small percentage of 182,500? It cannot be denied that it is. To what must we attribute the cause? British Columbia is owned by less than 500 men.

The Premier has introduced a bill in the Senate to prevent frauds on the Government. Is it not somewhat late in the day for Satan to commence rebuking sin? It is never too late to mend, says the proverb, but we fear that Mr. Abbott's case furnishes an exception to the rule. The clearness of Mr. Abbott's moral vision now that he and his friends have feathered their nests, will not especially recommend him to the confidence of the people of Canada. No new laws are needed to protect the Government from fraud. The desideratum is an honest Government. If Mr. Abbott can frame a law whereby an honest Government is guaranteed, whereby Pacific Scandals are impossible, he will have done something which will mitigate the odium of his own record. Laws against fraud administered by dishonest men will not have the effect intended, and nobody knows that better than Mr. Abbott. It might be supposed that Mr. Abbott would get tired of posing as a political reformer.

The Colonist thinks that "the offer of the Dominion to sell the Indian reserve to the corporation is worthy of the very serious consideration of both the city council and the citizens." We do not think that it is, and for the very reasons that the Colonist adduces. If the reserve has any value it is the city that gives it. As to the proposition that the Government should be satisfied to get in exchange for the reserve a sum sufficient to provide the Indians with good land elsewhere, we concur, provided that sum be nominal. What ought to be done is this: The reserve should be sold to the highest bidder or bidders, he figure not to be less than $300,000, and 1 of this sum the city to get all above say $100,000, the city's proportion to go toward harbor and other improvements. Here is an opportunity for the Government to do the square thing by Victoria, and that without trenching on the Dominion exchequer. It is some such proposition as this that the citizens of Victoria should consider seriously, and not the proposition to give the Government $300,000 to squander on contractors, female postal clerks and printing bureaus.

As a witness on his oath, Hon. John Robson appears to be as inconsistent and unreliable as he is as a speaker in the legislature, or as a politician generally. Look at these facts:

In the action of McDougall vs. Robson, the latter, in his statement of defence, gave the number of lots which he owned in subdivision 185, group 1, New Westminster district, as 65. For the clearing of these 65 lots he agreed to give McDougall six lots. In answer to interrogatories Hon. John Robson swore:

1. That he owned on the 13th of May, 1889, 52 of the lots set out in the schedule,

2. That he sold 30 of the said lots before the 4th day of December, 1887.

3. That he owned on 10th Sept., 1889, 51 of said lots.

These four statements cannot be reconciled. We would say that one or more of them must be untrue, but that we remember Mr. Robson made them all on oath.

President Harrison observed to the Vermonters, the other day, that "we are conspicuously a people abiding in respect and honor for the law. The law as expressed in our constitutions and in our statute books is the sovereign to which we all bow. We acknowledge no other." The Toronto Empire commenting on these remarks does not say that the President has lied, but it describes sundry lynchings, all of which go to show that Americans are not a "conspicuously" law-abiding people. In another column the Empire publishes a communication from "A Lover of Justice" anent the Handcock case, in which it is made to appear that the refusal of Mr. Justice Street to grant bail to the accused is not warranted by the evidence. The Empire's correspondent quotes Col. Denison as saying that if he were trying the case, he would dismiss it for want of evidence. The correspondent also adduces other reasons why the accused should be granted bail, all quite cogent. The question now arises, which is preferable, Judge Lynch or Mr. Justice Dogberry? Judging by the "exodus," we should say that the Canadians prefer the former.

Oregon is talking of having a naval reserve. Says the Oregonian, "Portland business men, and especially those in any way connected with maritime matters are thoroughly enthused regarding the desirability of such a branch of the National Guard." To what must we attribute this sudden exhibition of Webfoot military, or rather nautical, ardor? Had Col. Prior's drill shed anything to do with it? The success of the naval reserve picnic on the Atlantic coast may have inspired the warlike enthusiasm of the Portland dudes, but we are inclined to think that the primary cause of it was Col. Prior's $20,000 drill shed, although the Oregonian does not "let on" to that effect. The Government that appropriates $6000 only for the cultivation of the olive branch and $20,000 for hot house soldiers cannot be said to be peacefully inclined. The action of the Portland dudes, therefore, is quite comprehensible. Self preservation is the first law of nature. The Oregonian may as well acknowledge that Portland regards Victoria's $20,000 drill shed a menace. We shall next expect to hear of a naval reserve being started at Port Crescent, Port Angeles and Port Townsend, and then—why then, our gallant Col. will cry havoc and let sleep the dogs of war!

THE POSTOFFICE.

TO THE EDITOR:—When the Victoria members of Parliament were looking around for subjects for reform, I think they might have paid some attention to our postoffice service. For instance, there was no delivery of letters this morning in the part of the city where I live, mail matter being delayed until this evening. On inquiring at the postoffice I found this was caused by the letter-carrier for this district having quit work. It seems that when a carrier has a mind to quit, or when he falls sick, there is always delay in filling his place. I believe permission has to come from Ottawa, and while waiting for that the letters have to lie undelivered, or a carrier from some other route has to be "borrowed," making only one delivery on each route in a day. On further inquiry I find that there are only four carriers for this city, and that they are hard pushed to make two deliveries per day when they are all at work, going from daylight till dark. For this very hard work they get only about $40 per month, which is very small wages for such work. No wonder it is hard to find men willing to work all day for such trifling wages. That accounts, I believe, for the very many changes I have noticed in letter carriers. Comparing notes, I have found that in other parts of the city people have noticed the same thing. Once a week or so a carrier quits, then for a while there is no delivery, or only one delivery a day, and then a new man appears. This is the wretched way the Government treats this city, and Prior and Earle don't think it worth while to protest. SAN JUAN.

TRAM CAR LINE AND STREETS.

TO THE EDITOR:—The TIMES and also the Colonist attribute the accident which happened to me last Wednesday evening to the fact that my horse bolted or took fright. This is entirely incorrect. The accident happened close to the end of the tram car line, near the Jubilee Hospital. This part of Fort street is narrow, and the tram car line occupies half the road, leaving only sufficient room for one vehicle on the remainder. For the last week or more this remaining part has been further curtailed by the deposit along its side of water pipes and piles of tram rails. These latter have been more or less spread across the road by the wheels of vehicles. Now, as I was driving towards the Hospital on Wednesday after dark, the end of one of these rails got between the spokes of one of the wheels of my buggy, my smash-up being the result. The pipes and rails should have been placed on the side of the road occupied by the tram line, where they would have been out of the way. My horse was not to blame for my accident, but the want of common sense of the parties who obstructed the road in the manner described. Surely the tram car company should at least leave one one half of a road open for other conveyances. Proper restrictions have not been inserted in the charter granted to this company, as the most cursory glance at its operations makes manifest.

It is a matter of notoriety that our roads and streets are continually made dangerous for vehicles after dark by all manner of obstructions. A proper supervision of the thoroughfares by a municipal officer is urgently needed, otherwise grave accidents, and suits for damages against corporation and tram car company will occur. I certainly consider the inhabitants of Victoria in many ways a long suffering public.

In conclusion, may I ask you, while there is a by-law prohibiting carriages crossing the bridges at a pace faster than a walk, why the tram cars (of much greater weight, and running on rails so badly laid as to cause the strain on the bridge structure to be very uneven,) are allowed without comment to be driven over them at an eight or ten mile an hour gait?

A Big Prize Winner.

Mr. Hubert F. Page, whose stock at last year's exhibition secured so many prizes, is in town. He remarked: "I have every confidence in the Matsqui country as a farming section, and have every reason to believe that it is as good as the best. My crops are turning out satisfactorily, much better than last year, and all my stock is doing well. I expect to make a large exhibit at Victoria as well as New Westminster this year." Mr. Page is probably the largest and most successful breeder and raiser of fine stock in the province. He makes a specialty of the famous Holstein-Friesian cattle, Yorkshire and Chester white pigs, and the well-known Percheron horse.

RANK AMONG ACTORS

Fine Distinctions of Etiquette Observed in the Green-Room.

There is no place under heaven in which hierarchical grades are so rigidly established as in the dancers' green-room at the European opera-houses. The star, says the Chicago News, bears exactly the same relation to the subjects as a queen does to the ladies of the court, and the subjects the same relation to the coryphees as, say, the ladies of the bedchamber to the dressers of her Majesty. The quadrille is a mob of novices having no rank to speak of.

Were a subscriber to pit or box tier, who has his entree to the green-room, engaged in a conversation in the wings with a member of the quadrille, and a coryphee to come up, the former would have to go away. The same etiquette would be observed by a coryphee if a subject came up; and if the star deigned to speak to the gentleman the subject would be expected to fall back in an attitude which would express the deep sense she felt of the honor done her by the star in deigning to address the admirer of the subject.

A star would think herself called upon to resent being invited to dine with an inferior member of the corps de ballet unless her leave were first asked. The etiquette would be to ask her what members it might be agreeable for her to meet, and whether, if she did not desire to make a choice herself, it might be agreeable for M'd'lle Such-a-One to be invited? Nor would it be thought rude if she made a choice excluding the danseuse so named. Subjects stand in a relative position toward coryphees. But young ladies of the quadrille should be only asked to meet each other.

The Test.

A philosopher says that no woman shows that she is truly independent and self-reliant until she enters a restaurant alone, pays for what she eats, and goes out with a look of proud disdain on her face and jumps aboard a street-car without asking the driver to stop.

Drowning of James Scott.

Some two months ago the TIMES published an item to the effect that a rumor was in circulation that James Scott, one of the crew of the Vancouver schooner Beatrice, had been drowned in Behring sea. Everything possible was done to find out the origin of the rumor but without avail so it was decided that the rumor had started in somebody's imagination. When the Beatrice arrived she brought the news that the boat that Scott was in was missing but they did not know that he had been drowned until a dispatch was received from San Francisco stating that a schooner had picked up the two men who were with Scott and that Scott had been drowned. The question to be solved is, how did the rumor reach Victoria two months ago when no boats were arriving from the sea? Jas. Scott was well known in Victoria he having lived here for a number of years with his parents and since their death with relatives. He was about 18 years of age and had been sealing for several years.

THE STRIKE IS OFF.

THE STRIKERS MEET THE COMPANY'S DIRECTORS

The Committee Appointed by the Men Lay Their Case Before the Board of Directors—President Higgins Gives His Side of the Story.

The motormeers and conductors of the N. E. T. & L. Company who went out on strike yesterday morning met last evening and selected a committee to wait on the directors this morning. The committee was composed of Messrs. Reid, Gibson, Wilson, Marshall and Campbell. The council met President Higgins, and Directors Dr. Jones, Ald. Coughlan and Hon. Theo. Davie. The Superintendent, Mr. Menaugh was also present. Dr. Jones occupied the chair.

Mr. Marshall, one of the committee, opened the discussion and he asked whether three hours had been added to the men's time by the boards consent; whether they thought it was right and whether they said the men had to run on that time or resign? He and all the men denied having received any information to the effect that the nine hour schedule that they had been working under was only temporary. No notice was posted to that effect. Mr. Higgins had said that the old schedule had been cancelled as it was unequal and as the last man on at night had to be the first on in the morning. Why then should they return to the old schedule. The men didn't ask for an increase of pay and they didn't leave the cars in the shop to force the company to anything and Mr. Higgins told them that their places could be filled. Mr. Higgins had said that the conference had been called to canvas his acts. They did not come to the meeting to canvas his acts. He told them last evening that if the directors supported the men he would resign his position. The speaker did not want that to waive the directors decision. The men wanted them to act upon the merits of the grievance.

Director Davie—Thought the men were putting the cart before the horse hanging their man and then appealing the case. He thought it would have been better for the men before causing the inconvenience that they had, to have appealed their case to the board.

Mr. Marshall—He did not say that it would not have been better, but they had been forced to do as they had done by Mr. Higgins.

Mr. Wilson—The new schedule for the Esquimalt line was posted up on the 2nd of September. Mr. Gibson asked Mr. Higgins then when it came in force. The answer received was: "Do it to-morrow or resign." The men worked 12 hours one day, and asked Mr. Higgins to meet them at night. Mr. Higgins asked that it be put off until the next night. If the men had done so they would have been working another day of 12 hours.

Mr. Gibson—A few days previous to September 2nd a notice was posted up that there would be a change in the schedule. A feeling got abroad among the men that this was a "feeler." When the Superintendent was asked when the new schedules were coming into force, he answered that he did not know. As the men did not know how they stood, they conferred with Mr. Higgins. Mr. Higgins said the duties had been posted up and they were to go by them. When question of remuneration came up Mr. Higgins said he would lay the matter before the men and use his best endeavors for them. He thought it would have been better to post up the new schedules for the different lines all at once, not one at at a time. Before the conference was over the president told the men that if they did not want to comply with the schedule they could resign. The day after the conference the men went to work, working from 6 a.m. to 7 p.m. In the evening two meetings of the men were held and they came to the conclusion to send a petition to Mr. Higgins asking him to put them back to their old time, and unless the notice of the new schedule was taken down they would have to go out. He personally objected to the strike but it was the feeling of the men. The next day Mr. Higgins saw the men's secretary when he expressed a wish to meet them. He (Gibson) went to the office and Mr. Higgins apologized to him for the way in which he had treated him on the day previous. Mr. Higgins then said the paper had not been posted with the object of increasing the schedule to 12 hours a day. He (Gibson) asked if the notice was wrong why was it not pulled down. If it had been the men would have compromised. If it was not intended it was not business. The notice was not signed, the only thing making it legal being the fact that the president had told the men to abide by it. Mr. Higgins had said that he told the superintendent that the nine hour schedule was only a temporary arrangement. The men all declared that they had never been told that it was only temporary. The men had understood when the company first started that if the undertaking was successful their hours of labor would be reduced. This was done. Mr. Higgins when asked to meet them one night asked that they wait until the next night. He knew the men would strike and was just trying to gain time. The committee did not promise to meet them the next night as they had no power to act. The matter had been misrepresented all through.

Mr. Wilson—One of the directors had said that these men might as well have run another day of 12 hours and met Mr. Higgins at night. If they had done so they might as well have accepted the new schedule. The day he ran 11 hours he had only had 10 minutes for his dinner. The men have to change their things on getting off the car and before going on. If he had had an hour for his dinner he would not have felt the loss of a few minutes, but with only half an hour every minute counted. Mr. Higgins said there would be men to relieve them for an hour at meal times the next day but the men did not turn up.

Mr. Campbell said the men could not endure the hours laid down in the new schedule. He has to be up late at night and out again early in the morning two day out of three.

President Higgins said the trouble had originated in April last when complaints were made to him that some men were working 11 hours while others were only working 9 hours. After conferring with the superintendent it was decided to place two crews on each car. The men then had an easier time than any other car drivers in America. In November last the men complained that the weather was getting bad and they asked for an increase in pay. This request was granted by the board of directors. He was surprised to see by the Colonist that one of the men, Douglas, had made a deliberate mis-statement in regard to the matter. Some one had also made a mis-statement at last evening's meeting in regard to his trip to the east. The chairman of the meeting of the men had been credited with saying that he (the president) went east to investigate the working of the lines. The chairman wrote to him (Mr. Higgins) denying having made the statement. He had explained to the men why he could not meet them on the night that they requested. The doctor had ordered him not to go out, but would have gone out the next night anyway. He had told them that he would not expect them to work 12 hours a day. One of the men said his actions were those of a feeler, while another had said that in postponing the meeting he wanted time to act, inferring that he wanted to get men in their places and oust them. These same men stated that they have the greatest respect for him. The committee had left him after their first meeting with the kindest feelings, and if they had carried the truth to the men there would not have been a strike to-day. He told the committee who waited on him that the old schedule would be modified before being brought into force. As long as he was head of the company he would regret what had occurred. He had told everybody that the company had the finest lot of men possible to obtain on their cars, and he regretted that they had taken a snap judgment. Three of the strikers have money and propety belonging to the company, and they come here and ask the directors to give them a clean bill of health and crush him. He had told Gibson that a relief crew would be put on the Esquimalt cars to shorten the hours.

Mr. Wilson said that he had never understood that a relief crew would be put on.

Mr. Higgins was sorry that Wilson had not been at the meeting, then. He had told the men that the old schedule would be modified. He had altered the schedule to nine hours a day temporarily, without the sanction of the board. Here, he was held up to the public as a monster trying to rob the men of their bread. He had not been treated with proper feeling by the men. The committee that met him were satisfied.

Mr. Gibson—We had no power to say that the men were satisfied.

Mr. Higgins—Under the nine hour schedule the men had to keep their cars clean but under the new schedule it was intended to employ men for that purpose as the cars had not been kept clean. He admitted that the notice was a mistake but refused to pull it down as he did not intend to yield to force. The only ones he would yield to were the directors. A thousand other men could not make him yield. The men said the cars would not go out and they didn't. But they are out now. In the petition presented to him there was a stipulation that the notice would have to be pulled down before 6 o'clock. He told them then to withdraw the stipulation and he would withdraw the notice.

Mr. Gibson thought the men had taken too stringent measures.

Mr. Campbell, when he went to work in the morning thought the men would work that day and meet Mr. Higgins in the evening.

Director Davie could not see where the grievance lay when the change had been made to equalize the men's time. He certainly would not think of asking the men to work 12 hours a day.

Supt. Menaugh said Mr. Higgins had assured the men that they would not have to work 12 hours a day. He had been ordered to put another crew on each car, and if the men had gone to work yesterday they would only have had 9 hours' work to do. When the 9 hour schedule was adopted he told the men the time would be changed. When he found that the men were not at work, he gave them half an hour to get on the cars.

Dr. Jones (chairman)—The matter had been thrashed out pretty well, and he thought the men had been too hasty. They had made a great mistake. The cars were running and the company intended to run them and run their own business, too.

The meeting adjourned after the men had been given to understand that a 12 hour system was not intended, and that the matter had been left in the hands of the President.

Mr. Higgins said that any applications from strikers to be taken back on the cars would be considered.

The men held another meeting this afternoon in the Sir William Wallace hall, Mr. Lobbin in the chair.

The whole question was discussed at length, Mr. Higgins' statement of the case coming in for general consideration. The committee appointed to wait on the directors reported to the meeting the result of the interview and the report was received and adopted. The meeting was considering a course of action at the time of going to press.

PRESIDENT HIGGINS' CORRECTED.

TO THE EDITOR,—Having read the president's statement in your issue of last night, to your reporter, regarding the tramway trouble, we would like to make a few corrections, and make clear a few facts.

Firstly.—A statement has been made to the effect that the superintendent was told to inform the men that the nine hour system was only a temporary arrangement, and that there would be another schedule as soon as arrangements could be made. We emphatically deny ever having received any written or verbal notice to that effect, consequently the men have always looked upon it as a permanent arrangement, especially as it had frequently been mentioned that the hours would be lessened.

Secondly—With regard the change of time, we contend that it is not the old schedule but a totally new arrangement, giving the men 12 hours a day while the old one only averaged 10.

Thirdly—With reference to the determined opposition, the men had one hour allowed them to decide either to accept that new time or resign their positions, and the opposition was only made when the time was enforced on the Esquimalt route.

Fourthly—At Mr. Higgins' request, a few of the men called upon him, but had no power to bind themselves to any agreement, before consulting their fellow employes; and we parted with the full understanding that it depended upon the decision of the men that night, as to whether they would take the cars out in the morning or not, and strongly urged upon him the necessity of being present at that meeting.

Trusting to your kindness to insert this letter, and apologising for occupying so much of your valuable space, we remain yours truly,

THE COMMITTEE.
(W. J. Douglas, chairman.)

An Attractive Investment.

The Mount Tolmie Home Building Association are determined to make that beautiful section the most popular residence suburb of Victoria. With that end in view they are about to begin the erection of 200 neat and substantial houses. To encourage rapid settlement they offer the houses at actual cost value, on payments about equal to the rental value of the property. A house will be erected on every third lot, making the intervening lots of extraordinary value as an investment. In no other suburban section can lots adjoining built-up property be purchased for so low a price or upon such easy terms. At Mount Tolmie Park you can purchase a large lot for $300 by paying $25 cash and the balance in 35 monthly payments of $5 each, without interest.

This is an opportunity for homeseekers and for persons of small income to make a safe investment with absolute certainty of profit, by reason of the improvements the Association guarantee to make within 30 months.

ROUGH ON CATS.

A Novel Invention by Which They Are Captured.

The Inventor a Man of Genius Who Has an Intense Dislike for the Feline Race—No More Back-Yard Concerts.

The only Keely's motor is still in the other, but the inventive genius of Philadelphia has not ceased to burn brightly. A Philadelphia machinist, John J. Chattaway, has invented a device for capturing feline minstrels. Quiet as of the cemetery is absolutely essential to the comfort of a Philadelphian, but the Quaker cats have not as yet learned to mitigate their nocturnal concerts or to temper their lovelorn lays. They patrol the fences and the back yards with the noisy vehemence of their kind, and protesting Philadelphia waves its night-cap and shouts and screams in vain. But the researches of the ingenious Mr. Chattaway have shown how to bell the cat. The part of the town in which he lives, so writes an enthusiast in the Philadelphia Times, "is the areadia for all the lovemaking toms and tabbies in the neighborhood. On his back fence and on the back fences of all his neighbors it has been the nightly custom, rain or shine, for hundreds of nocturnal prowlers to congregate and there hold discordant revel." Poisoned meat and spring traps were tried without effect. The cats laughed at them. Broken glass, barbed wire, and other anathets against the fencehaunter were equally useless. The cats continued their vociferous proceedings, and the inhabitants swore and suffered.

In the sleepless nights the brain of Chattaway kept working at a plan for conquering the invader of his peace. It came to him finally in a dream. "From his sick-pit he dug a pile of empty tomato cans, and out of these supplemented by a roll of condemned roofing tin, which a sympathizing neighbor kindly donated, he manufactured a contrivance that, if universally adopted, will rob the funny paragraphers of one of their most fecund sources of supply." His completed device for a cat-compeller is a "continuous strip of pyramidal-shaped tin, the apex of the pyramid being placed on top of the fence. The base of the tin triangle is left open, and the sloping sides hang over the fence and stand out from its face. As the apex of this tin roof comes to a sharp point, and its sides are too smooth even for the claw holds of a cat, the result, when a tom or tabby attempts to cross it, is obvious. As soon as their feet strike the tin they are bound to slip, and a fall on one or the other side of the fence is inevitable. As the tin sides project beyond the face of the fence it is impossible for the fallen feline to climb back to its perch again."

The first night's catch is thus reported:

"It was late Monday afternoon when Machinist Chattaway finished nailing his cat-compeller in place, and the curious neighbors wondered what it all meant. Darkness had nearly fallen before the cats began to congregate. As Machinist Chattaway's house is near the middle of the block, his back fence was a sort of meeting place, and the spot where all combats were arranged and fought out. The night was not so dark as to prevent the confident inventor from witnessing the result from his library windows. The first cat to strike the compeller, a gigantic tom, sprang upon the tin coping with a meow of disdain. Like a flash Tom's maltese body described a semi-circle, and, much to his amazement, he landed in the yard. Recovering himself, and with his feline mood up, Tom gripped the fence and scrambled upward. His head struck the projecting tin, and after one or two futile attempts to get a claw hold he slid back into the yard, sans spirit, sans mode, sans confidence. Tom realized that he was a prisoner, and lay low, uttering from time to time a subdued and mournful meow.

"He was not long without company. A tabby was the next victim, and although he recognized her as an old-time sweetheart, and she identified him as a once-favored beau, neither had any heart for love-making, but crouched in opposite corners of the yard, disgustedly blinking at each other. From that time on until dawn cats came, and but few escaped. Those that were fortunate enough to fall on the alley side of the fence scampered away, with their distended tails aloft.

"Early the next morning the smiling inventor softly opened his back door and peeped out. By actual count there were seventeen cats in the yard. Old fighters and young fighters were huddled together. Misery had made them forget their animosities, and they greeted the machinist with frightened stares and mournful whines. When he opened the back gate they rushed out into the alley and scampered away."

Cotton in Bombay.

In Bombay, as in Lancashire, "Cotton is king," says the Pall Mall Gazette. The boats plying in the harbor, the wharves of the splendid docks, the picturesque bullock-carts that throng the streets, are all "cotton." After New Orleans Bombay is the greatest cotton-port in the world. Four million cwt. are shipped abroad every year, and 2,000,000 more are spun and woven in the eighty-two mills of the Bombay presidency. The value of all this cotton is about £12,000,000. The old Cotton green, a vast space devoted to dealers in the raw material, is one of the show places of the city, and forms a striking picture of busy native life.

The Needle's Eye.

The above name is given to a subterraneous passage on the coast of Banffshire, one hundred and fifty yards long from sea to sea, but through which a man can, with difficulty, creep. At the north end of the Needle's Eye there is a cave twenty feet high, thirty broad and one hundred and fifty long. The whole of this passage and cave is supported by immense columns of rocks, making a grand scene which has a surprising effect on one who has crept through the narrow passage.

THIRTY-EIGHT YEARS APART.

A Family Reunion Which Was a Total Surprise.

Two brothers who had not seen each other for thirty-eight years, but who had been living and working within a few blocks of each other for months, were accidentally brought together recently. Their meeting, says the Chicago News, was followed by a family reunion which completed a family circle that had been broken since 1853.

In that year John Shepherdson left his home in Oneida county, N. Y. He drifted south and when the war broke out he was running a locomotive on a railroad in Texas. In some way a rumor reached his parents that he had entered the confederate service and had been killed in one of the early battles. He was mourned as one of the unknown dead in an unnumbered grave of the battlefield.

Milton W. Shepherdson was only two years old when John left home, and the younger brother knew his lost brother only as a family tradition. Milton came to Chicago in 1870 and for some time has been the engineer of the Weber music hall building at the corner of Wabash avenue and Jackson street. The other day he was surprised to meet a man of the same name—not a common one—and a comparison of family history convinced the strangers that they were brothers.

"I continued as a locomotive engineer in Texas for several years," said John, as he told his story. "I was a thorough rebel, and when the war began, and the country becoming too warm for me I was forced to make my headquarters in Mexico.

"After the war I returned to my old home, only to discover that my parents were both dead, that two brothers had been killed in the union army and that the remainder of the family had scattered so that I could find no trace of it. I then traveled about over the country, visiting almost every state in the union, always being in search of some of my old friends. I came to Chicago two years ago, and have been employed as engineer in the Tabernacle building at 352 Monroe street.

"A few days ago a gentleman came to see me while I was at work and began questioning me about myself and my early life. He ended by declaring that he was my brother Milton. I have lived about sixty-five years and have done my share of roughing it, but I was never so entirely nonplussed in my life as I was at that moment. I soon discovered that he had told me the truth, and then I seemed to be a boy again and for several minutes we cried over each other like children.

"The remainder of the family was notified and my brother Robert and two of my sisters, Mrs. Hall, of La Porte, Ind., and Mrs. Hanson, of Rochester, Minn., arrived in the city, and we had a reunion such as you read about in fiction."

A STRANGE FIND.

A story which smacks of the marvelous is the theme of much speculation at Sydney, Australia, says the New York Journal. In May, 1890, four men left the Australian metropolis for a prospecting tour in the mountains of New Zealand. During July and August they had done much hard work around the base of Mount Ruaperhui and in the immediate vicinity.

In the following month they penetrated the unknown wilds on the headwaters of the river Waikato. October 9 their crowbars loosened an immense ledge of rocks which arose like a precipice from the bed of a small creek tributary to the Waikato. When the debris was cleared away, a small crack some ten inches wide, was revealed. Within two feet of the opening this crack became a wide-mouthed subterranean chamber. A little more labor admitted the men into the opening. Priming their miners' lamps they started on a tour of exploration.

Bones, charcoal and rudely constructed pottery was found everywhere; some mummified remains of a small race of people with long, plaited hair, and a few copper weapons were also found. Finally they emerged into an immense chamber, the dome of which was several hundred feet above their heads. But the Titanic nature of the cavern did not excite their curiosity as much as a strange-shaped object which was dimly outlined in the center of the chamber.

In their unbounded amazement they approached the uncanny object and found it to be a sailing vessel of marvelous symmetry and surprising beauty. The deck was of rosewood or of some material much resembling that valuable cabinet timber, and the masts of ebony, polished as finely as the case of a music-box. The remains of sails which hung idly around copper wire ropes or cables proved that they had been of pure yellow silk, almost as thick as a farmer's grain sack.

The vessel was upwards of one hundred feet in length and some thirty broad. Although there were many copper wires and bands used in its construction, not a single nail or screw of any metal was to be seen, every joint being secured by hardwood screws or pins. Here for once is room for unbounded speculation. When, how, and under what circumstances was this piece of unknown marine handicraft transported to the South Pacific island and buried hundreds of feet in the interior of a lofty mountain? No means of egress or ingress were found except the narrow opening revealed by the crowbar's work.

If You Are in the Swim.

If you want to be in it up to the neck, to use a rather expressive vernacular phrase, you must write "Town," instead of "City," on local letters. "They" say it is quite too utterly English, and its use will show the postal clerks and letter carriers that you know what's what. If it should happen to bother these hard-worked individuals, so much the better. For the aforesaid "they" say it is English not to think of the convenience of humble and unknown toilers.

BEATING A RAILROAD.

A drummer for a St. Louis clothing house tried to play a low-down trick on the Alton road at Dwight one day recently, and but for the chance observation of a female passenger who was awaiting her train his scheme would undoubtedly have succeeded.

The fellow, says the Chicago Herald, held checks for two pieces of baggage, a trunk and a satchel. Obtaining permission from the baggageman, who was at work on the platform, to go inside and place an extra sample in his trunk the traveling man shortly emerged from the baggage-room protesting that he was unable to find his satchel. Search was at once instituted, but to no effect; the missing grip for which he held a check was nowhere to be found. As it was not forthcoming when the train arrived the drummer made a formal complaint to the station agent and put in a claim of one hundred dollars against the road to reimburse him for his loss.

After the man had left, a lady who sat in the waiting-room, and who had been a quiet but interested observer of the proceedings, walked toward the ticket window and inquired of the agent if the drummer had actually claimed that his valise had been stolen. She was told such was the case. "Well," said the woman, "I am convinced that the fellow is a fraud, for from where I sat I had a clear view of the baggage-room, and I distinctly saw that man go in there, unlock his trunk and place his satchel inside. Then after pretending to hunt around the room he rushed out and began abusing the baggageman."

The agent whistled thoughtfully. It was a new dodge on him. Then he sent a dispatch to the operator at the P., P. and N. junction, to which place the drummer had checked his trunk, in which he outlined the circumstances and urged that the agent call two or three reputable citizens and in their presence open the trunk.

The St. Louis man was up-town when the telegram arrived, but his baggage was at the station. Hastily calling in the city marshal and the nearest blacksmith, the lock of the trunk was skillfully picked, and there, just beneath the tray, lay the missing satchel.

The entire particulars have just been sent in to the general office of the Alton, together with the very saucy letter demanding one hundred dollars. In reply an answer was sent the St. Louis drummer to the effect that if he ever dared press his claim any further he would be vigorously prosecuted and punished to the full extent of the law. Since the exposure of this well-laid scheme to raise the wind it transpires that the artful dodger has been working the plan on other roads, but as the man's claims had not been paid, owing to the usual red tape that obtains in such cases, the chances are that he will never press any of them for final settlement.

DEATH STOPS THE CLOCK.

At Least That Is the Supposition of Superstitious People.

The sentimental and superstitious who are given to tracing the laws of coincidence, says the Pittsburgh (Pa.) Times, will find an interesting subject for their attention in the recent death of a jeweler in Bucyrus, O. For many years it has been the office of a skillful German watchmaker whose name is Frank Kehrer, to attend to the town clock. During the last few months the health of Mr. Kehrer has been poor, and the clock, deprived of his careful attention, has been keeping indifferent time.

One Monday morning recently the timepiece struck five o'clock and a few moments later it stopped. Early risers who heard the chime say there was something indescribably weird and peculiar about it. Later risers noticed that the clock hands pointed to 5:05, commenting upon the subject and its aged guardian. Later in the day the news spread that Mr. Kehrer's condition had suddenly become worse, and that he had died at 5:05 that morning.

When the late State Senator J. B. Smith, of Hancock county, W. Va., passed away, his family looked at his watch to see the time. The hands pointed to 12:02. When S. G. Smith, son of the late senator, began housekeeping in Wheeling, his father gave him a family clock which he had always attended to himself. After the funeral Mr. Smith returned to Wheeling. As soon as he saw the clock Mr. Smith turned to his mother and sister and asked them if anything in the room had attracted their attention. "The clock," said the sister, and the mother nodded assent. The clock had stopped at 12:02.

A "Dog Modiste" in Paris.

Lovers of pet dogs will be interested in the visit of an American lady to the store of a "dog modiste" in Paris. The sights were very amusing. The place was not so much a store as an establishment, with halls and rooms richly furnished. Ladies tripped in and out all day long, most of the visitors having with them pugs or terriers. The pet dogs were scattered through the rooms, each awaiting its turn. Many small mats and rugs were around the waxed floors, and every bit of carpeting of the kind was occupied by some pretty little creature. These dogs have various dresses. The robe used in the morning is a garment of dark blue cloth. It is called a paletot, and is lined with red flannel. From a leather collar little bells jingle as its wearer walks along. Sometimes a bunch of violets is fastened on the left shoulder of a dog. On very cold days the pet is clad in sealskin of the same pattern, the collar being of fur, mounted in silver.

A Divided Town.

The town of Texarkana is on the line between Texas and Arkansas, with a street-car track dividing the two. This was thought to be very funny at first, but now it has to have two sets of city officers, has lost the county seat and criminals escape from one state to another by going six feet. The man who staked out the town is dead, however, and nothing can be done.

Bread Exported From Russia.

ST. PETERSBURG, Sept. 3.—There is a persistent rumor that a high duty will be placed on white wheat. The Novoe-Vremy demands that the government interdict the exportation of bread, Jews having availed themselves of the technical omission in the rye ukase against the export of rye loaves.

A QUARTER OF A CENTURY AGO

There settled in Baker county, Oregon, near what is now Baker City, a man who has since become identified with the resources and development of that country. This man is no other than Mr. John Stewart, one of the wealthiest and most influential citizens in the county. In a recent letter he says: "I had been suffering from pains in my back and general kidney complaint for some time, and had used many remedies without any but temporary relief. The pains in my back had become so severe that I was prevented from attending to my work and could not move about without the use of a cane. Hearing through a friend, of the wonderful cures effected by Oregon Kidney Tea, I was induced to try a box, and from that very first dose I found instant relief, and before using half the contents of the box the pains in my back entirely disappeared. I have every faith in the virtues of the Oregon Kidney Tea, and can conscientiously recommend it to my friends. I would not be without it for anything."

Oregon Kidney Tea cures backache, incontinence of urine, brick dust sediment, burning or painful sensation while urinating, and all affections of the kidney or urinary organs of either sex.

THE KOOTENAY MINES.

Advices From Trail Creek—Complaints Against Gold Commissioner Fitzstubbs—A Man Killed on the Columbia & Kootenay Railway.

From the Miner.)

The hot springs on Upper Arrow lake are to be improved, so that they can be visited with comfort by tourists. Robert Sanderson, who owns the land on which they are located, has entered into an agreement with Hugh Madden, of Nelson, by which the latter obtains a five years' lease of ground on which to erect a hotel, the building to be completed by June 1st, 1892. Mr. Sanderson will erect bath-houses, and put in pipes to convey the water from the springs to the hotel. The water is said to be beneficial to those suffering from rheumatism and kindred complaints.

The day after his arrival at Nelson, Surveyor-General Gore settled the Nelson street embroglio. Gen. Biglow's forces now chew the cud of contentment, while Napoleon's henchmen are circulating a petition to have their able commander promoted to a higher position in the tax-eating brigade.

A luminous meteor shot through the sky shortly after sundown Friday evening. About 10 seconds elapsed from the time it appeared above the mountain tops northwest of Nelson till it disappeared behind the mountains on the southeast. It is described as looking like a rocket, the ball appearing to be about 6 inches in diameter and the tail 20 feet in length.

Advices from Trail Creek are that but little actual development work is being done. Four men are at work for the Le Roi company—the only men drawing wages in the camp. Bill Springer left Nelson this week to look after his interests there.

This week A. McCleary sold his ranch on the Columbia river, opposite Sproat, to E. Mahon, the purchase price being in the neighborhood of $5000. Of the 320 acres, 8 acres are plowed and fenced and about 100 acres more are suitable for cultivation, the remainder being hilly grazing land. A house, barn and root-house are the improvements.

There is a good deal of complaint made by miners and mine owners at the treatment they receive from gold commissioner Fitzstubbs. They claim that he does not know anything about the mining law, and is apparently unwilling to make himself acquainted with its provisions. The minister of mines should institute an enquiry, and if the charges made are based on facts, Mr. Fitzstubbs should be removed to another field of usefulness. The most important mining district in the province should at least have a gold commissioner within its boundaries whose knowledge of the Mineral Act is not gained in sidewalk consultations with ex-officials.

Instead of going through to the Priest Lake country in Idaho, Jack Buchanan, Mike Landrigan, G. M. Gething, and Bill Springer wandered over to the east of Salmon, and prospected a section that lies about 20 miles southeast of Toad mountain. They found what they were looking for and returned to Nelson the fore part of the week to see if it really was as good as it looked. Ellis, the assayer, made three assays: one yielded $286 in silver, $3 in gold, and 20 per cent. lead; another $193 in silver and 34 per cent. in lead, and another $3 in silver and $12 in gold to the ton. They claim the ledge is in place and of good width. They returned to the ground on Monday.

The Kaslo creek excitement continues, although a number of the boys are returning. George Keefer and M. C. Monaghan returned to Nelson the latter end of the week and report making five locations. They say the mineral belt extends for several miles, and that a number of locations have been made at the head of the Slocan, which is some 15 miles west of Kootenay Lake. The mountains are reported high, with grass-covered slopes on one side and precipitous broken ridges on the other. There is still a great depth of snow in places.

Outside the opening of the Ainsworth house, nothing of importance is reported from Ainsworth or Hot Springs district. A number of Nelson's best people went up to the opening, merely to show that old-time miner Charley Olson, and that other old-time prospector, Tom Trenery, that they were willing to aid the mining industry of a neighboring camp.

The main tunnel in the Silver King is in over 600 feet and the crosscut at the bottom of the shaft 45 feet. The latter ran through the ore body and is now in soft shale. The second crosscut to the right in the main tunnel is in 25 feet and the crosscut to the left in about 10 feet—the latter in ore. The working force is between 20 and 25 men.

FATAL ACCIDENT ON THE C. & K. R'Y.

About noon on Monday an accident on the Columbia & Kootenay Railroad resulted in the death of one man and slight injuries to two others. A gravel train, made up of 10 loaded flat cars and a caboose, with the engine pushing it, was being run from the gravel pit to Nelson. Two gangs of Chinese, about 50 in all, and their foremen were on the flat cars; Conductor McMorrine, Trainmaster Hamilton and Roadmaster Watmore were in the cupola of the caboose. When about three-fourths of a mile west of Kootenay siding and six miles from Nelson, the caboose jumped the track and turned over. A flat car went off on the opposite side, and another flat was derailed and thrown across the track. The engineer saw the caboose leave the track, and reversed the engine, stopping the train within a distance of 200 feet. The men in the caboose had no difficulty in climbing out, and although shook up a little have escaped with slight bruises. One of the foremen named Anderson, however, had not escaped so luckily. A few minutes before the accident he was noticed coming towards the caboose, and it is not known where he was standing when the caboose left the track. He was found with one leg pinned under the platform of the caboose, and on being released, it was seen that his right leg had been badly crushed. Roadmaster Watmore and Mr. Hamilton got a handcar and started to Nelson for medical aid. This obtained, an engine was run back and the injured man brought to Nelson. Although a strong, healtay man and apparentlv conscious all the time, he died within three hours after the accident.

THE UPPER COUNTRY BRACING UP.

The outlook for the upper country is becoming brighter. Illecillewaet is reported quite lively. Revelstoke is to become a lumbering as well as a smelting center. The snowsheds in the Selkirks are sound and as solid as the day they were put in. Donald is almost as lively as during the time it was known as the modern Gomorrah. Golden consumes more whisky than ever. The ore in the Monarch mine at Feld is becoming less refractory. The Lanark mine near Illecillewaet is said to be looking fine, the ore body being over 60 feet in extent and no walls visible. Archie McKinnon has bonded his Maple Leaf for $50,000, with a cash deposit. The San Juan claim is reported sold at figures close to $40,000. The Corbin & Kennedy claims on the east fork of the Illecillewaet are being examined by the representatives of an English syndicate, and are quite likely to change hands at a figure said to be $200,000. Over on Fish creek better days are dawning, even the Dunvegan, on which the late Joe Wilson staked his all, is likely to prove a big property. A strike of good galena ore is reported being made by Pete Walker and Tom Downs at a point on the Lardeaux about three miles from Trout lake. J. C. Stein, of Revelstoke, who was in Nelson this week, reports his saw and shingle mills running to their full capacity, and that his firm is not able to supply the demand from Manitoba and the Northwest Territories.

WHICH IS THE FAVORITE?

I was in the office of the Advisory Board of the Northwestern Traffic Committee in Chicago the other day. A prominent official, well known in the Twin Cities for his ability and geniality, was looking over the pool sheet for June which a clerk had just made out.

"There's quite a traffic between Chicago and the Twin Cities," the official remarked as he produced a "Jay Gould Favorita," a high grade railroad cigar of the period, "and it's a constant source of wonder to me how the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul road maintains its lead in passenger traffic, considering the immense competition. Just look at this pool sheet," he continued. I read: "The Minneapolis-St. Paul-Chicago lines carried 13,400 through passengers in June. The advisory board after a thorough examination of the reports fix the following percentages:

	PER CENT.
Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul	27
Chicago, St. Paul & Kansas City	18
Albert Lea	17
Northwestern	16
Wisconsin Central	15
C. B. & N.	07
Total	100

I asked to what he attributed the fact that the "St. Paul" got more than one-quarter of the through travel between Chicago and the two big Minnesota towns.

"There is only one reason after all," he replied. "The public prefer the C., M. & St. P. by because its management inspires confidence; because its trains are the most luxurious; because one may always rely on getting to a given destination on time. This is not the history of a day, a week, or a month, but it is a regular thing. As you know, I got my training on a competing road, but I must acknowledge the corn: The C., M. & St. P. is first in the estimation of the people. Did you ever try their vestibuled limited train between Chicago and St. Paul? If not, do so and you will understand the reason for that 27 per cent. H. B. H.

Mothers

Castoria is recommended by physicians for children teething. It is a purely vegetable preparation, its ingredients are published around each bottle. It is pleasant to the taste and absolutely harmless. It relieves constipation, regulates the bowels, quiets pain, cures diarrhœa and wind colic, allays feverishness, destroys worms, and prevents convulsions, soothes the child and gives it refreshing and natural sleep. Castoria is the children's panacea—the mothers' friend. 35 doses, 35 cents.

Kaiser Wilhelm in Austria.

VIENNA, Sept. 3.—Emperor William, of Germany, abcompanied by Chancellor Von Caprivi, at Horn this morning, met Emperor Francis Josepn of Austria, who was accompanied by the King of Saxony. They proceeded on horseback to the headquarters, at Gopfritz, of the Austrian army engaged in the manœuvres.

Purify Your Blood

The importance of keeping the blood in a pure condition is universally known, and yet there are very few people who have perfectly pure blood. The taint of scrofula, salt rheum, or other foul humor is heredited and transmitted for generations, causing untold suffering, and we also accumulate poison and germs of disease from the air we breathe, the food we eat, or the water we drink. There is nothing more conclusively proven than the positive power of Hood's Sarsaparilla over all disease of the blood. This medicine, when fairly tried, does expel every trace of scrofula or salt rheum, removes the taint which causes catarrh, neutralizes the acidity and cures rheumatism, drives out the germs of malaria, blood poisoning, etc. It also vitalizes and enriches the blood, thus overcoming that tired feeling, and building up the whole system. In its preparation, its medicinal merit, and the wonderful cures it accomplishes Hood's Sarsaparilla is Peculiar to Itself. Thousands testify to its success, and the best advertising Hood's Sarsaparilla receives is the hearty endorsement of its army of friends. Every testimonial we publish, and every statement we make on behalf of Hood's Sarsaparilla may be relied upon as strictly true in every respect.

If you need a good blood purifier or building up medicine, be sure to take Hood's Sarsaparilla. Further information and statements of cures sent free to all who address us as below.
